The untaught harmony of spring :

While, whisp'ring pleasure as they fly,

Cool Zephyrs thro' the clear blue sky

Their gather'd fragrance fling.

Where'er the oak's thick branches stretch

A broader browner shade ;

Where'er the rude and moss-grown beech

O'er-canopies the glade^a,

Beside

Beside some water's rushy brink
With me the Muse shall sit, and think
(At ease reclin'd in rustic state)
How vain the ardour of the Crowd,
How low, how little are the Proud,
How indigent the Great !
Still is the toiling hand of Care ;
The panting herds repose :
Yet hark, how thro' the peopled air
The busy murmur glows !
The insect youth are on the wing,
Eager to taste the honied spring,

Alike the Busy and the Gay

But flutter thro' life's little day.

In fortune's varying colours drest :

Brush'd by the hand of rough Mischance,

Or chill'd by age, their airy dance

They leave, in dust to rest.

Methinks I hear in accents low

The sportive kind reply :

Poor moralist ! and what art thou ?

A solitary fly !

Thy Joys no glittering female meets,

No hive hast thou of hoarded sweets,

B 4

No painted plumage to display :

On hasty wings thy youth is flown :

Thy fun is set, thy spring is gone—

We frolick, while 'tis May.

ON THE DEATH OF A
FAVOURITE CAT,
Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes.

'T WAS on a lofty vase's side,
Where China's gayest art had dy'd
The azure flowers, that blow ;
Demurest of the tabby kind,
The pensive Selima reclin'd,
Gaz'd on the lake below.

Her

12 ODE ON THE DEATH

Her conscious tail her joy declar'd ;

The fair round face, the snowy beard,

The velvet of her paws,

Her coat, that with the tortoise vies,

Her ears of jet, and emerald eyes,

She saw ; and purr'd applause.

Still had she gaz'd ; but 'midst the tide

Two angel forms were seen to glide,

The Genii of the stream :

Their scaly armour's Tyrian hue

Thro' richest purple to the view

Betray'd a golden gleam,

The

OF A FAVOURITE CAT. 13

The hapless Nymph with wonder saw :

A whisker first and then a claw,

With many an ardent wish,

She stretch'd in vain to reach the prize.

What female heart can gold despise ?

What Cat's averse to fish ?

Presumptuous Maid ! with looks intent

Again she stretch'd, again she bent,

Nor knew the gulf between.

(Malignant Fate sat by, and smil'd)

The flipp'ry verge her feet beguil'd,

She tumbled headlong in.

Eight

Eight times emerging from the flood

She mew'd to ev'ry wat'ry God,

Some speedy aid to send.

No Dolphin came, no Nereid stirr'd ;

Nor cruel Tom, nor Susan heard,

A Fav'rite has no friend !

From hence, ye Beauties, undeceiv'd,

Know, one false step is ne'er retriev'd,

And be with caution bold.

Not all, that tempts your wand'ring eyes

And heedless hearts, is lawful prize ;

Not all, that glisters, gold.

And ye, that from the stately brow
Of WINDSOR's heights th' expanse below
Of grove, of lawn, of mead survey,
Whose turf, whose shade, whose flowers among
Wanders the hoary Thames along
His silver-winding way.

Ah happy hills, ah pleasing shade,
Ah fields belov'd in vain,
Where once my careless childhood stray'd,
A stranger yet to pain!
I feel the gales, that from ye blow,
A momentary bliss bestow,

The captive linnet which enthrall ?

What idle progeny succeed

To chase the rolling circle's speed,

Or urge the flying ball ?

While some on earnest business bent

Their murmur^dring labours ply

'Gainst graver hours, that bring constraint

To sweeten liberty :

Some bold adventurers disdain

The limits of their little reign,

And unknown regions dare descry :

Still as they run they look behind,

They hear a voice in every wind,

And snatch a fearful joy.

Gay

PROSPECT OF ETON COLLEGE. 21

Gay hope is theirs by fancy fed,
Less pleasing when possess'd;
The tear forgot as soon as shed,
The sunshine of the breast:
Theirs buxom health of rosy hue,
Wild wit, invention ever-new,
And lively cheer of vigour born;
The thoughtless day, the easy night,
The spirits pure, the slumbers light,
That fly th' approach of morn.

Alas, regardless of their doom,
The little victims play!
No sense have they of ills to come,
Nor care beyond to-day.

Yet see how all around 'em wait

The Ministers of human fate,

And black Misfortune's baleful train,

Ah, shew them where in ambush stand

To seize their prey the murth'rous band !

Ah, tell them, they are men !

These shall the fury Passions tear,

The vulturs of the mind,

Disdainful Anger, pallid Fear,

And Shame that sculks behind ;

Lo, Poverty, to fill the band,

That numbs the soul with icy hand,

Condemn'd alike to groan ;

The tender for another's pain,

Pindar styles his own poetry with its musical accompaniments,

Æolian strings, the breath of the Æolian flute.

38 THE PROGRESS OF POESY.

The laughing flowers, that round them blow,

Drink life and fragrance as they flow.

Now the rich stream of music winds along,

Deep, majestic, smooth, and strong,

Thro' verdant vales, and Ceres' golden reign :

Now rowling down the steep amain,

Headlong, impetuous, see it pour :

The rocks, and nodding groves rebellow to the roar.

The subject and simile, as usual with Pindar, are united. The various sources of poetry, which gives life and lustre to all it touches, are here described ; its quiet majestic progress enriching every subject (otherwise dry and barren) with a pomp of diction and luxuriant harmony of numbers ; and its more rapid and irresistible course, when swollen and hurried away by the conflict of tumultuous passions.

i Oh! Sovereign of the willing soul,
 Parent of sweet and solemn-breathing airs,
 Enchanting shell! the fullen Cares,

 Has curb'd the fury of his car,
 And drop'd his thirsty lance at thy command.

^c We have had in our language no other odes of the sublime kind, than that of Dryden on St. Cecilia's day: for Cowley (who had his merit) yet wanted judgement, style, and harmony, for such a task. That of Pope is not worthy of so great a man. Mr. Mason indeed of late days has touched the true chords, and with a masterly hand, in some of his Choruses,—above all in the last of Caradacus,

Hark! heard ye not yon footstep dread? &c.

 With orient hues, unborrow'd of the Sun :
 Yet shall he mount, and keep his distant way
 Beyond the limits of a vulgar fate,
 Beneath the Good how far—but far above the Great.

he compleated the conquest of that country, order-

to death.

‘ Helm,

' Helm, nor ^f Hauberk's twisted mail,
 ' Nor e'en thy virtues, Tyrant, shall avail
 ' To save thy secret soul from nightly fears,
 ' From Cambria's curse, from Cambria's tears !
 Such were the founds, that o'er the ^g crested pride
 Of the first Edward scatter'd wild dismay,
 As down the steep of ^h Snowdon's shaggy side
 He wound with toilsome march his long array.

all the highlands of Caernarvonshire and Merionethshire, as far east as the river Conway. R. Hygden, speaking of the castle of Conway built by King Edward the first, says, " Ad ortum amnis Conway ad clivum montis Erery ;" and Matthew of Westminster, (ad ann. 1283,) " Apud Aberconway ad pedes montis Snowdoniæ fecit erigi castrum " forte."

 And with a Master's hand, and Prophet's fire,

° Camden and others observe, that eagles used annually to build their aerie among the rocks of Snowdon, which from thence (as some think) were named by the Welch Craigian-eryri, or the crags of the eagles. At this day (I am told) the highest point of Snowdon is called the eagle’s nest. That bird is certainly no stranger to this island, as the Scots, and the people of Cumberland, Westmoreland, &c. can testify : it even has built its nest in the Peak of Derbyshire. [See Willoughby’s Ornithol. published by Ray.]

‘ Dear

- ‘ Dear lost companions of my tuneful art,
 ‘ P Dear, as the light that visits these sad eyes,
 ‘ Dear, as the ruddy drops that warm my heart,
 ‘ Ye died amidst your dying country’s cries—
 ‘ No more I weep. They do not sleep.
 ‘ On yonder cliffs, a grieved band,
 ‘ I see them sit, they linger yet,
 ‘ Avengers of their native land:
 ‘ With me in dreadful harmony they join,
 ‘ And ^q weave with bloody hands the tissue of thy line.’

The Author once had thoughts (in concert with a Friend) of giving the History of English Poetry: In the Introduction to it he meant to have produced some specimens of the Style that reigned in ancient times among the neighbouring nations, or those who had subdued the greater part of this Island, and were our Progenitors; the following three Imitations made a part of them. He has long since drop'd his design, especially after he had heard, that it was already in the hands of a Person well qualified to do it justice, both by his taste, and his researches into antiquity.

P R E F A C E.

IN the Eleventh Century Sigurd, Earl of the Orkney-Islands, went with a fleet of ships and a considerable body of troops into Ireland, to the assistance of Siétryg with the filken beard, who was then making war on his father-in-law Brian, King of Dublin: the Earl and all his forces were cut to pieces, and Siétryg was in danger of a total defeat; but the enemy had a greater loss by the death of Brian, their King, who fell in the action. On Christmas day, (the day of the battle,) a Native of Caithness

P R E F A C E.

Caithness in Scotland saw at a distance a number of persons on horseback riding full speed towards a hill, and seeming to enter into it. Curiosity led him to follow them, till looking through an opening in the rocks he saw twelve gigantic figures resembling women: they were all employed about a loom; and as they wove, they sung the following dreadful Song; which when they had finished, they tore the web into twelve pieces, and (each taking her portion) galloped Six to the North and as many to the South.

FATAL SISTERS.
AN ODE.

NOW the storm begins to lowr,
(Haste, the loom of Hell prepare,)

¶ Iron-fleet of arrowy shower

¶ Hurtles in the darken'd air.

Note—The Valkyriur were female Divinities, Servants of Odin (or Woden) in the Gothic mythology. Their name signifies Chusers of the slain. They were mounted on swift horses, with drawn swords in their hands; and in the throng of battle selected such as were destined to slaughter, and conducted them to Valkalla, the hall of Odin, or paradise of the Brave; where they attended the banquet, and served the departed Heroes with horns of mead and ale.

¶ How quick they wheel'd; and flying, behind them shot
Sharp fleet of arrowy shower— Milton's Paradise Regained.

¶ The noise of battle hurtled in the air. Shakespear's Jul. Cæsar.

Glitt'ring

80 THE FATAL SISTERS.

Glitt'ring lances are the loom,
Where the dusky warp we strain,
Weaving many a Soldier's doom,
Orkney's woe, and Randver's bane.

See the grieved texture grow,
('Tis of human entrails made,)
And the weights, that play below,
Each a gasping Warriour's head.

Shafts for shuttles, dipt in gore,
Shoot the trembling cords along.
Sword, that once a Monarch bore,
Keep the tissue close and strong.

Mista

Mista black, terrific Maid,

Sangrida, and Hilda see,

Join the wayward work to aid :

'Tis the woof of victory.

Ere the ruddy sun be set,

Pikes must shiver, javelins sing,

Blade with clattering buckler meet,

Hauberk crash, and helmet ring.

(Weave the crimson web of war)

Let us go, and let us fly,

Where our Friends the conflict share,

Where they triumph, where they die.

G

As

82 THE FATAL SISTERS.

As the paths of fate we tread,

Wading thro' th' enfanguin'd field :

Gondula, and Geira, spread

O'er the youthful King your shield.

We the reins to slaughter give,

Ours to kill, and ours to spare :

Spite of danger he shall live.

(Weave the crimson web of war.)

They, whom once the desert-beach

Pent within its bleak domain,

Soon their ample sway shall stretch

O'er the plenty of the plain.

Low

Low the dauntless Earl is laid,

Gor'd with many a gaping wound :

Fate demands a nobler head ;

Soon a King shall bite the ground.

Long his loss shall Eirin weep,

Ne'er again his likeness see ;

Long her strains in sorrow steep,

Strains of Immortality !

Horror covers all the heath,

Clouds of carnage blot the sun.

Sisters, weave the web of death ;

Sisters, cease, the work is done.

G 2

Hail

84 THE FATAL SISTERS.

Hail the task, and hail the hands !

Songs of joy and triumph sing !

Joy to the victorious bands ;

Triumph to the younger King.

Mortal, thou that hear'st the tale,

Learn the tenour of our song.

Scotland, thro' each winding vale

Far and wide the notes prolong.

Sisters, hence with spurs of speed :

Each her thundering faulchion wield ;

Each bestride her fable steed.

Hurry, hurry to the field.

DESCENT of ODIN.
A N O D E.

U Prose the King of Men with speed,
And faddled strait his coal-black steed ;
Down the yawning steep he rode,
That leads to ^s HELA's drear abode,

* Nifheimr, the hell of the Gothic nations, consisted of nine worlds, to which were devoted all such as died of sickness, old-age, or by any other means than in battle: Over it presided HELA, the Goddess of Death.

G 4

Him

88 THE DESCENT OF ODIN,

Him the Dog of Darknefs spied,
His shaggy throat he open'd wide,
While from his jaws, with carnage fill'd,
Foam and human gore diffill'd :
Hoarse he bays with hideous din,
Eyes that glow, and fangs that grin ;
And long pursues, with fruitless yell,
The Father of the powerful spell.
Onward still his way he takes,
(The groaning earth beneath him shakes,)
Till full before his fearless eyes
The portals nine of hell arise.
Right against the eastern gate,
By the moss-grown pile he fate ;

Where

Where long of yore to sleep was laid
The dust of the prophetic Maid,
Facing to the northern clime,
Thrice he trac'd the runic rhyme;
Thrice pronounc'd, in accents dread,
The thrilling verse that wakes the Dead;
Till from out the hollow ground
Slowly breath'd a fullen sound,

PR. What call unknown, what charms presume
To break the quiet of the tomb?
Who thus afflicts my troubled sprite,
And drags me from the realms of night?

Long

90 THE DESCENT OF ODIN.

Long on these mould'ring bones have beat

The winter's snow, the summer's heat,

The drenching dews, and driving rain !

Let me, let me sleep again.

Who is he, with voice unblest,

That calls me from the bed of rest ?

O. A Traveller, to thee unknown,

Is he that calls, a Warrior's Son.

Thou the deeds of light shalt know ;

Tell me what is done below,

For whom yon glitt'ring board is spread,

Drest for whom yon golden bed.

PR. Mantling

PR. Mantling in the goblet see

The pure bev'rage of the bee,

O'er it hangs the shield of gold;

'Tis the drink of Balder bold:

Balder's head to death is giv'n.

Pain can reach the Sons of Heav'n!

Unwilling I my lips unclofe:

Leave me, leave me to repose.

Who th' Avenger of his guilt,

By whom shall Hoder's blood be spilt.

Who ne'er shall comb his raven-hair,

Nor wash his visage in the stream,
 Nor see the sun's departing beam;
 Till he on Hoder's corse shall smile
 Flaming on the fun'ral pile.
 Now my weary lips I close:
 Leave me, leave me to repose,

O. Yet a-while my call obey.
 Prophets, awake, and say,
 What Virgins these, in speechless woe,
 That bend to earth their solemn brow,
 That their flaxen tresses tear,
 And snowy veils, that float in air.

Tell

94 THE DESCENT OF ODIN.

Tell me whence their sorrows rose :

Then I leave thee to repose.

PR. Ha ! no Traveller art thou,
King of Men, I know thee now,
Mightiest of a mighty line —

O. No boding Maid of skill divine
Art thou, nor Prophetess of good ;
But mother of the giant-brood !

PR. Hie thee hence, and boast at home,
That never shall Enquirer come

To

To break my iron-sleep again ;
Till † Lok has burst his tenfold chain.
Never, till substantial Night
Has reassum'd her ancient right ;
Till wrap'd in flames, in ruin hurl'd,
Sinks the fabric of the world.

† Lok is the Evil Being, who continues in chains till the Twilight of the Gods approaches, when he shall break his bonds ; the human race, the stars, and sun, shall disappear ; the earth sink in the seas, and fire consume the skies : even Odin himself and his kindred-deities shall perish.
